

A former business owner, Fred Herzog learned that you can own your business, or it can own you. "I owned a tire store, had seven employees, and worked really hard to stay in business. But between inventory shrinkage, workman's compensation, and all the other expenses, the business basically owned me."

Fortunately for Herzog, he learned about network marketing about seven years ago. "I have found that I enjoy meeting new people who are positive and not negative by nature, and I enjoy improving myself — becoming a better person," says Herzog. "This I found in network marketing." He started in a telecommunications company recruiting long-distance-service customers, and after trying twelve different companies that failed for one reason or another, he came across Morinda, Inc. "I never thought of quitting network marketing. I knew that eventually I would find a company with a seasoned team of owners like Morinda," said Herzog. "A company that has an awesome product and a compensation plan that really rewards its workers."

TAHITIAN NONI® Juice is Morinda's premier product and is sold by independent distributors. "The juice gave both my wife and I incredible results," said Herzog. "That's all I needed, and I got busy." Herzog spoke to all his friends and started building his own Morinda business. "Things are going really well now; Morinda has sent me to Tahiti, we have an incredible new lifestyle, and my residual income is 30K per month," says Herzog. "Morinda has changed our lives, and I am determined to help others know what I know and have what I have!"
